Subject: Subject: PLAINS & EASTERN CLEAN LINE TRANSMISSION LINE - PART 2 APPLICATION
Date: Wednesday, June 10, 2015 3:22:30 PM

Dear Secretary Moniz:

It's interesting that when the U.S. Dept. of Energy considers whether Clean Line Energy's Plains & Eastern project meets all the statutory criteria of Section 1222 of the 2005 Energy Policy Act, it will also consider several "factors" that were created especially for the 2010 Request for Proposals. None of these DOE-created "factors" are found anywhere in Section 1222, nor are there any regulations, definitions or other objective criteria by which these "factors" may be measured. Transparency has been lost. It appears that the Department of Energy is simply making up the rules as it goes about the process of playing energy kingmaker, enriching billionaires at the expense of ordinary citizens.

Such invented "factors" include whether the project is in the public interest, as well as consideration of the benefits and impacts of the Project in each state it traverses, including economic and environmental factors.

Due diligence requires fair consideration of the economic interests of the public in "pass-through" states, and not merely a balancing act whereby some members of the public benefit, while others must sacrifice. It's not simply a math equation to figure out which group is larger. You're playing with the economic survival of real people here!

How and what will the DOE say to the property owners I have included below who will be directly affected economically by loss of property value when the promised .049 per Kw from Clean Line Energy Partners turns out to be closer to .20 per Kw. Here is another example of the Federal Government choosing favorites, rewarding private business. These are landowners in those sections across Sequoyah County, a majority I'm sure, are unaware of the proposed HVDC line. Wind Power is NOT affordable or reliable.
