MAPS Bird Banding May-August

E-mail Fernald@lm.doe.gov to be placed on our notification list for dates.

Monitoring Avian Productivity and Survivorship, or MAPS, is a long-running study of breeding birds and their dispersal pattern across the country. Because of the weather-dependent nature of this program, dates and times will be decided on a week-by-week basis. Join our notification list to get updates on when this program will be taking place.

Moth Night Friday, June 5, 9-11:30 p.m.

Moth nights are back for the season, so come out and take a 1-mile hike with us to check some lights for these nocturnal insects. This program covers unpaved and sometimes uneven trails, so sturdy footwear is recommended. Preregistration is required.

Create a Nature Journal Saturday, June 6, and Sunday, June 7, during visitors center hours

Calling all young nature explorers! Stop in and create your very own nature journal where you can draw, write, and explore the wonders of the natural world.

Cincinnati Astronomical Society: Mid-Year Astronomy News Friday, June 12, 8:30-11 p.m.

Astronomy is an ever-changing field, and astronomers are learning new information all the time. Come discover what we've learned so far this year. Afterwards, if the skies are clear, enjoy some time outside with CAS volunteers and their telescopes.

Fish of Fernald Saturday, June 20, 9 a.m.-noon

Come see a short presentation about the fish that may inhabit Paddys Run Creek, which runs along the western side of Fernald's property. Afterwards, join us on a 1-mile hike to watch our site ecologist survey the creek. This hike will cover unpaved and uneven trails, so sturdy shoes are a must. Preregistration is required.

Night Hike: Hickory Trail Friday, June 26, 9-10:30 p.m.

The days are hot, so come out and enjoy the preserve at night! This night hike will cover approximately 3 miles of unpaved and sometimes uneven trails, so sturdy shoes are a must. Participants are encouraged to bring flashlights.
