

2015 DOE SOLID-STATE LIGHTING R&D WORKSHOP
January 27–29, 2015 • Hilton Financial District • San Francisco, CA

ATTENDEE LIST

Junji Adachi
Kyushu University

Daniel Becerra
University of California, Santa Barbara

Kirsten Alberi
National Renewable Energy Laboratory

Scott Benton
PPG Industries

Peter Alstone
University of California, Berkeley

Chuck Berghoff
OptoElectronix

Jun Amano
Konica Minolta Laboratory USA

George Berov
Spectrum Manufacturing

Jamey Amrine
TOGGLED

Paul Berry
Dow Corning

Mehmet Arik
Ozyegin University

Ravi Bhatkal
Alpha, an Alent plc Company

Eric Armour
Veeco Instruments

Ethan Biery
Lutron Electronics

Sean Armstrong
Kurt J. Lesker

David Bisbee
Sacramento Municipal Utility District

David Bajorins
Canadian Standards Association

Iain Black
Philips Lumileds

Dan Barber
LORD Corporation

Jeffrey Blackwell
Sunlite Science & Technology

Norman Bardsley
Bardsley Consulting

Peter Blais
KEMET

Can Bayram
University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign

Stephen Bland
SB Consulting

No Commercial Use Policy

The U.S. Department of Energy (DOE) is a federal agency working in the public interest. Published information from the DOE Solid-State Lighting (SSL) Program, including test reports, technical information, and summaries, is intended solely for the benefit of the public, in order to help researchers, buyers, product specifiers, testing laboratories, energy experts, energy program managers, regulators, and others make informed choices and decisions about SSL products and related technologies. Such information may not be used in advertising, to promote a company's product or service, or to characterize a competitor's product or service. This policy precludes any commercial use of any DOE Solid-State Lighting Program published information in any form without the express written permission of the DOE.

Carl Bloomfield
Intertek

Christopher Byrne
Momentive

Darren Blum
Acuity Brands

Chris Campbell
Philips Lighting

Michael Bockstaller
Carnegie Mellon University

Bret Canada
Atlas Lighting Products

Alex Boesenberg
National Electrical Manufacturers Assoc. (NEMA)

Jean-Francois Canuel
Spectrum Manufacturing

Dennis Bradley
GE Lighting

Julian Carey
Intematix

Nanu Brates
Panasonic Boston Laboratory–ULT

Mike Carr
U.S. Department of Energy, EERE

Eric Bretschneider
EB Designs & Technology

Joel Chaddock
US DOE/National Energy Technology Laboratory

Jakoah Brgoch
University of Houston

Steven Chai
Milliken & Company

James Brodrick
U.S. Department of Energy, EERE

Raman Chauhan
Seren Photonics

Chris Brown
Kateeva

Jeff Chen
Sunlite

Michael Burchill
Arkema

Zhiyun Chen
Pixelligent Technologies

Jonathan Burke
Hitachi Chemical Co.

Ashfaqu Chowdhury
GE Lighting

Paul Burrows
Reata Research

Dipakbin Chowdhury
Corning

No Commercial Use Policy

The U.S. Department of Energy (DOE) is a federal agency working in the public interest. Published information from the DOE Solid-State Lighting (SSL) Program, including test reports, technical information, and summaries, is intended solely for the benefit of the public, in order to help researchers, buyers, product specifiers, testing laboratories, energy experts, energy program managers, regulators, and others make informed choices and decisions about SSL products and related technologies. Such information may not be used in advertising, to promote a company's product or service, or to characterize a competitor's product or service. This policy precludes any commercial use of any DOE Solid-State Lighting Program published information in any form without the express written permission of the DOE.

Theresa Christian
University of Colorado, Boulder

Aurelien David
Sora

Roger Chu
LEDinside

John Davidson
Walmart

Nancy Clanton
Clanton & Associates

Bob Davis
Pacific Northwest National Laboratory

Terry Clark
Finelite

Lynn Davis
RTI International

Sean Clifford
CSA Group

Monica Davis
EMD Performance Materials

Keith Cook
Philips Lighting

Patrick Davis
Orion Energy Systems

Greg Cooper
Pixelligent Technologies

Floryan DeCampo
Solvay

Michael Cordell
Samsung Electronics

Sheila Delk
Sora

Sarah Cornelius
Akoya

Aubert Demaray
Antrophy DE

George Craford
Philips Lumileds

Ernest Demaray
Antrophy DE

James Creveling
Toyoda Gosei North America

Steven DenBaars
University of California, Santa Barbara

Jack Curran
LED Transformations

John Dexheimer
LightWave Advisors

Lou Dadok
BDC

Krishna Sastry Dochibhotla
Visual Comfort

No Commercial Use Policy

The U.S. Department of Energy (DOE) is a federal agency working in the public interest. Published information from the DOE Solid-State Lighting (SSL) Program, including test reports, technical information, and summaries, is intended solely for the benefit of the public, in order to help researchers, buyers, product specifiers, testing laboratories, energy experts, energy program managers, regulators, and others make informed choices and decisions about SSL products and related technologies. Such information may not be used in advertising, to promote a company's product or service, or to characterize a competitor's product or service. This policy precludes any commercial use of any DOE Solid-State Lighting Program published information in any form without the express written permission of the DOE.

Mark Durniak
Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute

Zhengqing Gan
Bridgelux

Stephen Eaves
VoltServer

Nathan Gardner
Glo USA

John Edmond
Cree

Austin Gelder
ICF International

Kimberley Edwards
Lucite International

Brian Gerke
Lawrence Berkeley National Laboratory

Basar Erdener
WAC Lighting

Werner Goetz
Philips Lumileds

Michael Evenson
Acuity Brands Lighting

Alexander Golovets
AGEXINC

Paul Fini
Cree

Vidhya Shankar Govindarajan
Pacific Northwest National Laboratory

Kevin Fitzmaurice
Georgia Power

Wendy Graves
Akoya

Joseph Flemish
Philips Lumileds

Pim Groen
Holst Centre

Steve Forrest
University of Michigan

Gautam Gundiah
APL Engineered Materials

Paul Fuoss
Argonne National Laboratory

Rahul Gupta
Cambrios

Jim Gaines
Philips Lighting

Mike Hack
Universal Display Corporation

Alex Gallo
Acuity Brands Lighting

John Hamer
OLEDWorks

No Commercial Use Policy

The U.S. Department of Energy (DOE) is a federal agency working in the public interest. Published information from the DOE Solid-State Lighting (SSL) Program, including test reports, technical information, and summaries, is intended solely for the benefit of the public, in order to help researchers, buyers, product specifiers, testing laboratories, energy experts, energy program managers, regulators, and others make informed choices and decisions about SSL products and related technologies. Such information may not be used in advertising, to promote a company's product or service, or to characterize a competitor's product or service. This policy precludes any commercial use of any DOE Solid-State Lighting Program published information in any form without the express written permission of the DOE.

Doug Hamilton
Norlux

Min Huang
OSRAM

Mark Hand
Acuity Brands Lighting

Marc Huebner
Auer Lighting GmbH

Monica Hansen
LED Lighting Advisors

Bedwyr Humphreys
Seren Photonics

Garrett Hatch
Hatch Lighting

Cheng-Hung Hung
PPG Industries

Eric Haugaard
Cree Lighting

Po-Chieh Hung
Konica Minolta Laboratory USA

Asako Hayashi
Bridgelux

BT Hwang
HEP Group USA

Francois Henley
QMAT

David Hwang
University of California, Santa Barbara

Doug Highbridge
RAB Lighting

Andrew Janowicz
Lucite International

Margaret Hines
Nanoco Technologies

Konrad Jarausch
Passport Capital

Robert Holman
Qualcomm

Jaehong Jeong
Altoran Chip & Systems

David Horn
Lighting Technology Consultant

Jianzhong Jiao
OSRAM Opto Semiconductors

Pete Horton
Wattstopper/Legrand

Mark Johnson
U.S. Department of Energy

Ken Huang
Luxim Corp

Steve Johnson
PowerSecure-Solais

No Commercial Use Policy

The U.S. Department of Energy (DOE) is a federal agency working in the public interest. Published information from the DOE Solid-State Lighting (SSL) Program, including test reports, technical information, and summaries, is intended solely for the benefit of the public, in order to help researchers, buyers, product specifiers, testing laboratories, energy experts, energy program managers, regulators, and others make informed choices and decisions about SSL products and related technologies. Such information may not be used in advertising, to promote a company's product or service, or to characterize a competitor's product or service. This policy precludes any commercial use of any DOE Solid-State Lighting Program published information in any form without the express written permission of the DOE.

Morgan Jones
MoJo Labs

Art Lamstein
Quantum Materials Corporation

Neil Joseph
Stack Lighting

Kei May Lau
Hong Kong University of Science & Technology

Paul Jurkovic
EYE Lighting International

Kiran Laxman
WattStopper

Keith Kahen
Lumisyn

Marc Ledbetter
Pacific Northwest National Laboratory

Colleen Kantner
Lawrence Berkeley National Laboratory

BJ Lee
Epistar

Claire Karlicek
SolidUV

Louis Lerman
QuarkStar

Robert Karlicek
SMART Lighting Engineering Resource Center

Samuel Leung
Bridgelux

Bernd Keller
Cree

Jian Li
Arizona State University

Sang-Yeon Kim
Samsung Electronics

Jiajie Liang
UCLA

T. J. (Tae Jin) Kim
Photonic Systems Technology

Mark Lien
OSRAM Sylvania

Melanie Kimsey-Lin
Boeing

Mike Lu
Acuity Brands Lighting

Steven Konsek
National Science Foundation

Nick Mangione
EYE Lighting International

Adam Lambert
Antrophy DE

Karen Marchese
Akoya

No Commercial Use Policy

The U.S. Department of Energy (DOE) is a federal agency working in the public interest. Published information from the DOE Solid-State Lighting (SSL) Program, including test reports, technical information, and summaries, is intended solely for the benefit of the public, in order to help researchers, buyers, product specifiers, testing laboratories, energy experts, energy program managers, regulators, and others make informed choices and decisions about SSL products and related technologies. Such information may not be used in advertising, to promote a company's product or service, or to characterize a competitor's product or service. This policy precludes any commercial use of any DOE Solid-State Lighting Program published information in any form without the express written permission of the DOE.

Tal Margalith
University of California, Santa Barbara

William Mickelson
Evolution Materials

Michael Marie
RAB Lighting

Karmann Mills
RTI International

Suzanne Massoud
Consultant

Susie Minton
DMF Lighting

Michael Mastropietro
Novacentrix

Silvia Mioc
Smart Lighting ERC at RPI

Vladimir Matias
iBeam Materials

Saori Mitsuhashi
Nichia America

Jennifer McCue
Orion Energy Systems

Gerd Mueller
GOMMAconsult

Hunter McDaniel
UbiQD

Regina Mueller-Mach
GOMMAconsult

Joel McDonald
Dow Corning

James Murphy
GE

Michael McGaraghan
Energy Solutions

Anand Murugaiah
Momentive Performance Materials

Chad McSpadden
OSRAM Opto Semiconductors

Shuji Nakamura
University of California, Santa Barbara

Neil McSporrان
Pilkington – NSG

Nadarajah Narendran
Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute

James Medek
3M Company

Jim Neff
Philips Lumileds

Greg Merritt
Cree

Peter Ngai
Acuity Brands Lighting

No Commercial Use Policy

The U.S. Department of Energy (DOE) is a federal agency working in the public interest. Published information from the DOE Solid-State Lighting (SSL) Program, including test reports, technical information, and summaries, is intended solely for the benefit of the public, in order to help researchers, buyers, product specifiers, testing laboratories, energy experts, energy program managers, regulators, and others make informed choices and decisions about SSL products and related technologies. Such information may not be used in advertising, to promote a company's product or service, or to characterize a competitor's product or service. This policy precludes any commercial use of any DOE Solid-State Lighting Program published information in any form without the express written permission of the DOE.

Anne Arquit Niederberger
Policy Solutions

Lisa Pattison
Solid State Lighting Services

Sridhar Nimma
Eaton's Cooper Lighting

Morgan Pattison
Solid State Lighting Services

Maria Northup
NGLIA/National Electrical Manufacturers Assoc.

Qibing Pei
University of California, Los Angeles

Aaron O'Brien
Cordelia Lighting

Thiloma Perera
Dow Chemical Company

Manny Oliver
U. S. Department of Energy

Chris Perna
NXP Semiconductor

Chacko Oommen
Philips Lighting

Edward Petrow
LTSI

Amy Oriss
Akoya

Paul Pickard
EcoSense Lighting

Julian Osinski
Opticalogic Advisors

Christopher Pynn
University of California, Santa Barbara

Erik Page
Erik Page & Associates

Jeff Quinlan
Acuity Brands Lighting

Hash Pakbaz
SBA Materials

Emil Radkov
Soraa

Steve Paolini
NEXT Lighting

Dan Radomski
NextEnergy

Chris Papa
H.E. Williams

Michael Rahaim
Smart Lighting ERC, Boston University

Konstantinos Papamichael
University of California, Davis

Steve Reinhard
Nanoco Technologies

No Commercial Use Policy

The U.S. Department of Energy (DOE) is a federal agency working in the public interest. Published information from the DOE Solid-State Lighting (SSL) Program, including test reports, technical information, and summaries, is intended solely for the benefit of the public, in order to help researchers, buyers, product specifiers, testing laboratories, energy experts, energy program managers, regulators, and others make informed choices and decisions about SSL products and related technologies. Such information may not be used in advertising, to promote a company's product or service, or to characterize a competitor's product or service. This policy precludes any commercial use of any DOE Solid-State Lighting Program published information in any form without the express written permission of the DOE.

| | |
|--|--|
| John Renn Evluma | Connie Samla Sacramento Municipal Utility District (SMUD) |
| Matthew Resman Bridgelux | Kelly Sanders Northwest Energy Efficiency Alliance (NEEA) |
| Jacob Richardson Solution Deposition Systems | Kamran Sarmadi Fulham |
| Michele Ricks EMD Performance Materials | Sanwal Sarraf Lumentek Global |
| Ashwin Rishinaramangalam University of New Mexico – CHTM | Fuminari Sato Toyoda Gosei North America |
| Victor Roberts Roberts Research & Consulting | Peter Schmidt Philips Lumileds |
| Ivan-Christophe Robin CEA LETI | Peter Schwartz Lawrence Berkeley National Laboratory |
| Clark Robinson US DOE/National Energy Technology Laboratory | Rosemarie Seeland George Sexton Associates |
| Hank Rodeen Rodeen Enterprises | John Serra Juno Lighting Group |
| Tommie Royster R- Display & Lighting | Anant Setlur GE Global Research |
| Gregory Rushby Rushby Energy Solutions | Ashok Shah Epistar |
| Dan Ryan ByteLight | Saeed Shahmirzai Zoon Engineering |
| Burhan Saifaddin University of California, Santa Barbara | Youxi Shao VoltServer |

No Commercial Use Policy

The U.S. Department of Energy (DOE) is a federal agency working in the public interest. Published information from the DOE Solid-State Lighting (SSL) Program, including test reports, technical information, and summaries, is intended solely for the benefit of the public, in order to help researchers, buyers, product specifiers, testing laboratories, energy experts, energy program managers, regulators, and others make informed choices and decisions about SSL products and related technologies. Such information may not be used in advertising, to promote a company's product or service, or to characterize a competitor's product or service. This policy precludes any commercial use of any DOE Solid-State Lighting Program published information in any form without the express written permission of the DOE.

Ahmed Shuja
NEXT Lighting

Robert Spivock
GE Lighting

Ella Shum
PennWell

Russell Stapleton
Milliken

Milena Simeonova
Pacific Energy Center, PG&E

Robert Steele
Strategies Unlimited

David Simon
TOGGLED

Michael Stevens
Georgia Power

Phillip Smith
ITECS Innovative Consulting

Kelsey Stober
Navigant

Franky So
University of Florida

Rosanna Stokes
SiVance

Wouter Soer
Philips Lumileds

Rahul Subramany
Lutron Electronics

Richard Solarz
KLA-Tencor

Rajesh Swaminathan
xSi Semiconductors

Jyr Hong Soo
Veeco Instruments

Diane Szydel
APL Engineered Materials

Randall Sosnick
NEXT Lighting

Ashish Tandon
Philips Lumileds

Joshua Spechler
Princeton University

Yukari Tanimoto
Kaneka

Dan Sperling
Akoya

Michael Tischler
Cooledge Lighting

Jeffrey Spindler
OLEDWorks

Anton Tkachenko
Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute

No Commercial Use Policy

The U.S. Department of Energy (DOE) is a federal agency working in the public interest. Published information from the DOE Solid-State Lighting (SSL) Program, including test reports, technical information, and summaries, is intended solely for the benefit of the public, in order to help researchers, buyers, product specifiers, testing laboratories, energy experts, energy program managers, regulators, and others make informed choices and decisions about SSL products and related technologies. Such information may not be used in advertising, to promote a company's product or service, or to characterize a competitor's product or service. This policy precludes any commercial use of any DOE Solid-State Lighting Program published information in any form without the express written permission of the DOE.

Tom Trovato
Trovato Mfg.

Dan Wang-Munson
RAB Lighting

Ralph Tuttle
Cree

John Warwick
Philips Color Kinetics

Peter Van Buskirk
Sonata

Richard Weiss
Altoran Chip & Systems

Robert Vance
Innotec

Fred Welsh
Radcliffe Advisors

Tom Veenstra
Innotec

Yao-Jung Wen
Philips Research

John Vidaurrazaga
SONARAY

Christian Wetzel
Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute

Shonika Vijay
Strategies Unlimited

Gary Wiseman
Brisbane Materials

Nancy Wahl-Scheurich
LittleFootprint Lighting

Martin Wittmann
OSRAM Opto Semiconductors

Andrew Wale
Legrand

Andreas Wojtysiak
Osram GmbH

Fukang Wan
Xinmin Evening News

Tianna-Kaye Woodstock
Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute

Jeannine Fisher Wang
Acuity Brands Lighting

Hiroshi Yagi
IMAnet

Ucilia Wang
GigaOm

Takuma Yajima
Toyoda Gosei North America

Yunzhang Wang
Milliken & Company

Mary Yamada
Navigant

No Commercial Use Policy

The U.S. Department of Energy (DOE) is a federal agency working in the public interest. Published information from the DOE Solid-State Lighting (SSL) Program, including test reports, technical information, and summaries, is intended solely for the benefit of the public, in order to help researchers, buyers, product specifiers, testing laboratories, energy experts, energy program managers, regulators, and others make informed choices and decisions about SSL products and related technologies. Such information may not be used in advertising, to promote a company's product or service, or to characterize a competitor's product or service. This policy precludes any commercial use of any DOE Solid-State Lighting Program published information in any form without the express written permission of the DOE.

George Yianni
Philips

Brent York
QuarkStar

Barry Young
OLED Association

Nathan Young
University of California, Santa Barbara

Yiqiang Zhang
Trovato Technology LTD, HK

Jerry Zheng
Dialog Semiconductor

Nan Zhao
MIT Media Lab

Yuji Zhao
Arizona State University

No Commercial Use Policy

The U.S. Department of Energy (DOE) is a federal agency working in the public interest. Published information from the DOE Solid-State Lighting (SSL) Program, including test reports, technical information, and summaries, is intended solely for the benefit of the public, in order to help researchers, buyers, product specifiers, testing laboratories, energy experts, energy program managers, regulators, and others make informed choices and decisions about SSL products and related technologies. Such information may not be used in advertising, to promote a company's product or service, or to characterize a competitor's product or service. This policy precludes any commercial use of any DOE Solid-State Lighting Program published information in any form without the express written permission of the DOE.