Clothes Washers; Reopening of Comment Period

AGENCY: Office of Energy Efficiency and Renewable Energy, Department of Energy.

ACTION: Notification of data availability; reopening of public comment period.

SUMMARY: The U.S. Department of Energy (“DOE”) is reopening the public comment period for the notification of data availability (“NODA”) that published in the Federal Register on April 13, 2022, regarding additional testing conducted in furtherance of the development of the translations between the current test procedure and the proposed new test procedure for residential clothes washers.

DATES: The comment period for the NODA that published in the Federal Register on April 13, 2022 (87 FR 21816) is reopened. DOE will accept comments, data, and information regarding this NODA no later than May 27, 2022.

Although DOE has routinely accepted public comment submissions through a variety of mechanisms, including postal mail and hand delivery/courier, the Department has found it necessary to make temporary modifications to the comment submission process in light of the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic. DOE is currently suspending receipt of public comments via postal mail and hand delivery/courier. If a commenter finds that this change poses an undue hardship, please contact Appliance Standards Program staff at (202) 586-1445 to discuss the need for alternative arrangements. Once the COVID-19 pandemic health emergency is resolved, DOE anticipates resuming all of its regular options for public comment submission, including postal mail and hand delivery/courier.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

On September 1, 2021, DOE published a test procedure notice of proposed rulemaking proposing to establish a new test procedure for residential clothes washers (“RCWs”) at 10 CFR part 430, subpart B, appendix J, which would establish new energy efficiency metrics: an “energy efficiency ratio” and a “water efficiency ratio.” 86 FR 49140.

On September 29, 2021, DOE published a preliminary analysis of energy conservation standards for RCWs, which presented preliminary translations between the energy and water efficiency metrics as measured by the current test procedure and the new energy and water efficiency metrics as measured by the proposed new test procedure. 86 FR 53886.

On April 13, 2022, DOE published a NODA presenting the results of additional testing conducted in furtherance of the development of the translations between the current test procedure and the proposed new test procedure. 87 FR 21816. DOE requested comments, data, and information regarding the data. Comments were originally due on May 13, 2022.

On May 4, 2022, DOE received a comment from the Association of Home Appliance Manufacturers (“AHAM”) requesting that DOE hold a public meeting where stakeholders may raise questions and seek clarity on DOE’s data presented in the NODA. In its comment, AHAM summarized its questions regarding the data presented in the NODA.

AHAM additionally requested a comment period extension of 30 days from the date of the public meeting.

DOE has reviewed the request, including the specific questions raised in the comment, and has considered the benefit to stakeholders in providing additional data and information to address these questions and additional time to review such information. DOE will provide additional data and information in a separate notification to be made available in the rulemaking docket. Accordingly, DOE has determined that an extension of the comment period is appropriate and is hereby reopening the comment to May 27, 2022. DOE specifically encourages AHAM to submit data and results of any testing performed by AHAM members so that these may be made available to interested parties in the docket for this rulemaking.
