General Comment

Please, the Saguaro Project is a risk to the region's biodiversity and the community here.

The Gulf is home to an exceptional range of marine and terrestrial species (including endangered blue whales, whale sharks, and leatherback sea turtles), many of which will be threatened by the Saguaro project, its associated infrastructure, and related industrialization and shipping. For good reason, the legendary oceanographer Captain Jacques Cousteau named the Gulf the "Aquarium of the World."
