General Comment

GOOD IS WHAT TENDS TO PROMOTE EVOLUTION, AND EVIL IS WHAT TENDS TO HALT IT. Where has our conception of good and evolution deviated so far as to think that our individualism and neglecting the well-being of other species, even threatening their existence and the very balance of the ecosystem of which we are a part, is the right thing to do? When we choose the luxury of some of our species over the common good, what affects other humans, other species, and other things affects us. His gas pipeline initiative puts at risk not only an ecosystem like the Sea of Cortez, but also families and marine species like whales.
