General Comment

The project faces big risks:

Including but not limited to uncertainty in the safety of the area for american personel.

There is previous history of cancelation of american projects due to social unrest for example the project of constellation brands to build a brewery in Mexicali. Were the eater permit was revoqued.

This project is in high risk of stirring social unrest due to the environmental impact in all the territories it will cross but specifically in the vicinity of Baja California peninsula. Since it posses a big risk for whales and other migrating marine species many of which are endangered or at risk of becoming endangered.
