Subject: PLAINS & EASTERN CLEAN LINE TRANSMISSION LINE

I have followed this project with interest due to its potential impact on my home and the immediate area where I live (western TN). As per my earlier comments, I feel that this project is unwarranted and a complete waste of tax payer (my) money.

How anyone can seriously call a project green that involves building monstrosity high tension power lines, across multiple states, thousands of miles and which negatively impacts private property owners is beyond me; all in the name of moving providing "green" electricity. I still feel the funding would be better used to improve and develop current and future technologies in order to allow individual home owners to install wind and solar systems at their homes and become self sustaining off of the power grid. Only when we can achieve that, can we truly be "green", free dependency on foreign energy supplies and the threat of terrorist attacks on our power grid.

This is simply another example of big business using tax payer money to line their pockets all in the name of "green energy".

Just SAY NO to this project.

Sincerely,

Hans Kurtzman
