

ADR Lunchtime Series

Guest Speaker:

Dian Killian, Ph.D.

President, Working Collaboratively

How to Get People to do What You Want (Without Regretting It Later)

We depend on other people every day at work. Our supervisors, colleagues, and staff may support our ideas and projects, approve, and budget for things we want, help us overcome barriers and resistance, identify resources and solutions, and move projects forward. But what if we are at a standstill or at loggerheads with someone who is not cooperating or responding – or even actively blocking our way? In this interactive presentation, the participants will learn practical methods and skills to immediately resolve impasses and create greater buy-in, accountability, mutual trust, and goodwill.

Dian Killian, PhD, is the founder and lead trainer at Work Collaboratively, LLC; a CNVC certified trainer, certified life coach, and author of two books, including the popular Connecting across Differences. She has supported diverse organizations around the world, from small startups to large NGOs and Fortune 100 companies, including the UN Development Program, Merck Inc., Americorp, and Cornell University.

Interagency ADR Working Group

The Interagency Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR) Working Group was established by Presidential Memorandum dated May 1, 1998, to assist Federal agencies in developing and implementing ADR programs. The Working Group's members are ADR professionals in agencies across the Federal Government. The President appointed the Attorney General as the leader of the Interagency Working Group. The Interagency ADR Working Group is the central forum and resource for information about the Federal government's use of ADR. The working group advances the use of ADR through coordination of multi-agency initiatives, promotion of best practices and programs, and dissemination of policy and guidance.

The Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR) Office is the Department of Energy's representative on the Working Group and its Workplace Conflict Management Section. These ADR Lunchtime Series are hosted by DOE and coordinated by ADR Office staff.

For more information, DOE staff and contractors should contact the ADR Office at ADROffice@hq.doe.gov or 202-586-4002. For technical assistance during the presentation, please text 240-361-7607.

If contractor employee attendance is during billable work, prior to attending, the contractor employees should consult with their employer, who will coordinate with the contracting officer.”
